The result is King of the Mild Frontier: an Ill-Advised Autobiography. For my money, "ill-advised" is way off base. He was a typical fifties kid: the owner of an authentic Davy Crockett coonskin cap (which graces a now silver-tressed head in the author's photo); awkward wannabe athlete who made teams because there were more slots than students trying out; gullible baby brother; owner of a ...

"There is no Jesus without Judas, no Martin Luther King, Jr., without the Klan; no All without Joerazier; no freedom without tyranny. No wisdom exists that does not include perspective. Relativity is the greatest gift." — Chris Crutcher, King of the Mild Frontier: An Ill-Advised Autobiography

King of the Mild Frontier Quotes by Chris Crutcher

King Of The Mild Frontier Thursday, January 17, 2008. Blog 3. Finally that last thing that I have really evaluated is Chris' stupidity towards girls. So he was practicing for track, and he fell and cut up his elbow really bad. Well of course a huge scare formed there, it would be unnatural if there wasn't one.
